Abstract

the study aimed to identify the relationship of social responsibility to the centers affiliated with the University of Jerusalem with community empowerment and enhance the resilience of individuals in the Jerusalem governorate. Centers affiliated with Al-Quds University, and other community work centers in Jerusalem, and the researcher used the questionnaire as a study tool. The results concluded that Al-Quds University centers are highly concerned with the dimensions of social responsibility, the cultural dimension came first, then the social dimension, then the economic dimension, while the results also showed that the level of community empowerment among individuals in the city of Jerusalem came highly by the centers of Al-Quds University, as Jerusalemites receive support, advice, cooperation and attention from Al-Quds University. The results also showed that there are some obstacles that contribute to limiting Al-Quds University's societal responsibility in the city of Al-Quds due to occupation obstacles, and also the weak level of financial support.

The results also showed that there were no statistically significant differences in the opinions of the respondents according to the variables of the demographic study regarding the level of social responsibility and the level of social empowerment.

In the light of the results, the researcher recommended the necessity of raising the level of interest in the social aspect with regard to the problems of family disintegration, and trying to provide treatment through the community centers affiliated with the university, as well as with
